A Fellah Village. The quaint flat-roofed houses of an Egyptian village aptly blend with the sameness of land and sky, yet withal they are picturesque in the extreme. In hot weather they offer a cool retreat from the sun's glare, and at night—prayers said and sleeping mat laid—the occupants slumber on the roof beneath a starlit canopy.

PICTURESQUE EGYPT. Series XV.

"OILETTE" WORLD-WIDE WRAPPERS

Raphael Tuck & Sons' Oilette Postcards are published by Special Appointment to their Majesties the King and Queen, H.M. The King of Egypt, H.H. The Khedive of Egypt, and H.H. The Sultan of Turkey.

A Fellah Village. The quaint flat-roofed houses of an Egyptian village subtly blend with the sameness of land and sky, while they are picturesque in the extreme. In hot weather they offer a cool retreat from the sun's glare, and at night prayers are held on the roofs. Quite the occupants slumber on the roof beneath a starlit canopy.
